(Please join us for an informational workshop and learn more about a potential new energy option in San Mateo County. Peninsula Clean Energy is the name given to the potential Community Choice Energy (CCE) program in San Mateo County. This potential program would offer residential and commercial electricity customers new energy options, including higher renewable energy content at competitive rates. If formed, electricity customers in the County would be able to choose between Peninsula Clean Energy and PG&E as their electricity purchaser. Peninsula Clean Energy customers would receive multiple electricity options, each with a different amount of renewable energy content, at prices competitive with PG&E.)
